WELLCOME HISTORICAL MEDICAL LIBRARY

To the most Reverend Father in God

WILLIAM,

BY

DIVINE PROVIDENCE

Lord Archbishop of

CANTERBURY,

Primate of all England and Metropolitan.

May it please Your Grace

TO pardon my Boldness in endeavouring to shelter the following Sheets under Your Grace's Influence and Authority, since the Undertaking it self, as well as the Editor thereof, ſtand very much in need of ſo great a Patronage.

It is to no leſs Encouragement than that of an Archbiſhop of Canterbury the World ſtands indebted for Mr. Weever's Performance of this Kind; and I flatter my ſelf Your Grace will not diſapprove my purſuing the ſame Studies, tho' after a Method ſomewhat different from him.

I ſhall not preſume to Apologize for any Faults contained in it, but with all poſſible Submiſſion and Reſpect, refer both the Work and myſelf to Your Grace's Favour and Protection.

That it may pleaſe God long to continue Your Grace for the Good of his Church, and the publick Service of our King and Country, is the hearty Prayer of, moſt Obedient and

Your Grace's

moſt Humble Servant,

JOHN LE NEVE.

THE PREFACE.

Being very little acquainted with the Art of ſetting out a Book to Advantage, by way of a flouriſhing Introduction, I ſhall only beſpeak the Reader's Patience while I mention ſome few Things in relation to ſuch a Collection, as the following in general: And ſecondly, ſome Reaſons in behalf of my choſen Method, Annals.

Mr. John Weever was (I think) the firſt, who Anno 1631. publiſh'd a profeſs'd Collection of Monumental Inſcriptions, and perhaps might take his Hint from that part of the Remains of Mr. Cambden 4^to^. which recited ſo many of our Engliſh Epitaphs, (tho' I have Reaſon to believe many of them fictitious:) and I muſt acknowledge, it was the Obſervation of the Reſpect ſtill paid to Mr. Weever's Performance, which encourag'd me to attempt a much more numerous Collection of the ſame kind, altho' deſtitute of much real Aſſiſtance and Encouragement couragement to proceed, which he very plentifully met with.

In his Application to the Reader, page 1. he tells us, " In other Kingdoms the Monu- " ments of the Dead are ſo carefully preſer- " ved, that their Inſcriptions or Epitaphs are " enter'd in their Church-Books, and that by " the barbarous, inhumane, deformidable, rui- " nating, breaking down, defacing, and pil- " fering the brazen Inſcriptions in our King- " dom, the honourable Memory of many Vir- " tuous and Noble Perſons deceaſed is ex- " tinguiſhed, and the true Underſtanding of " divers Families in theſe Realms (who have " deſcended of thoſe worthy Perſons aforeſaid) " is ſo darkned, that the true Courſe of their " Inheritance is thereby partly interrupted.

To this latter Aſſertion, I believe every Gentleman of the College of Arms (when he is about to deduce a Pedigree) will readily ſubſcribe.

The Recommendations which Weever has collected in behalf of Monumental Inſcriptions, particularly if tranſcribed into a Volume, are chiefly from one of St. Jerom's Epiſtles, " Exegi " Monumentum, &c. quod huic Volumini ſubdidi, and more Encomiums on ſuch a Performance from Martial, Lucan, Ovid, Propertius, Spencer, &c.

Chapter 2. begins with an Etymology, Monumenta quaſi Munimenta, in relation to the Defence of the dead Corpſe from wild Beaſts, &c. and when we come to the Word Epitaph, p. 8. we are to underſtand it " A Su-

Mr. Camden's Account or Notion of Epitaphs is next recited in theſe Words; " Of all Funeral

Next follows, St. Auſtin's Definition of the Word, Monumentum, eò quòd moneat Mentem, id eſt, admoneat, nuncupatur.

Chapter 3. Of Sepulchre's anſwerable to the Degree of the Perſons deceaſed; the divers Manners of bearing Man and Woman to the Grave; when both Sexes began to be borne alike; " Moſtly taken from Camden's Remains.

Chapter 4. Of the Exceſſive Expences beſtowed at Funerals in former Times. A very elaborate Collection, pretty thick larded with Poetry.

Chapter 5. The Reaſons wherefore ſo many have made their own Monuments in their Life time. Of the Care that all or moſt

Men

Men have of decent Burial. The Burial of the Dead, a Work acceptable unto God. A Funeral Hymn of Aurelius Prudentius, to the same Purpose.

This Chapter contains first, an Enumeration of what sort shall not be buried, extracted both from Scriptural and Prophane History. That the fear of not having Burial, or having of ignominious and dishonourable Burial, hath ever affrighted the bravest Spirits of the World; and this is proved out of Virgil, Aulus Gellius, and Thomas May.

The Office of burying the Dead, is first recommended out of Lucan, secondly out of Virgil; and to prove its being acceptable unto God, Tobit is introduced, and St. Austin's Commendation of the Religious Women who poured the precious Ointments, and of those who took down our Saviour's Body from the Cross, and gave it honest and honourable Burial.

Lastly, the Funeral Hymn of Aurelius before mentioned, containing near four Pages in Folio.

Chapter 6. Of the Care and Cost antiently used in the preserving whole and entire the Bodies of the Dead. Strange Ways, Customs and Fashions of Burial, and contains very little to the Purpose of Monuments.

Chapter 7. Of Cenotaphs Honorary and Religious, and of the Reverence attributed to these empty Monuments, is much such another Collection as Chap. 4. but, concludes with the Difference of Sepulchres and Cenotaphs as recorded by Scipio Gentilis, Sepulchrorum Sancti-

tas in ipso solo est, quod nullâ vi moveri neq; deleri potest. Cenotaphiorum verò in ipsâ religione & reverentiâ vivorum, quæ & mutari & deleri potest.

" Quære if Scipio Gentilis had lived about
" the Middle of the Seventeenth Century,
" whether he would have recorded the first " part of this Sentence?

Chapter 8. Of the Sanctity ascribed sometimes to antient Funeral Monuments (Sepulchra Sanctiora sunt Vetustate) and of the ardent desire most Men have, and ever had, to visit the Tombs and Sepulchres of eminent worthy Persons. —— Here he lets us know, that in antient Times Children used to swear by the Sepulchres of their Parents, and tells us a Story of a Master, who in correcting his Slave, had less Respect for the Altar in the Temple of Apollo, than he had for the Tomb of his deceased Father; in such reverend and religious Regard the very Pagans had the Tombs of their Ancestors: whereas in our Days (says Weever) I hear no swearing by Kirks, Crosses or Sepulchres, except it be to pull them down, to deface or quite demolish all Funeral Monuments as remains of Antichrist, papistical and damnable. —— And I think I may venture to add, that the Swearers of this last sort in a few Years after Weever publish'd his Book, were very punctual in the Performance of their Vows.

To prove the ardent Desire all or most Men have to visit the Sepulchres of Eminent Persons —— We have abundance of Quotations out of Ovid, Lucan, Montaigne's Essays, &c. not forgetting the vast Concourse of People who come daily to see the Tombs in Westminster Abbey.

Chapter 9. Of the Punishments both by human Laws and God's severe Justice inflicted upon such Malefactors in foregoing Ages who violated Sepulchres. Of Church Robbers. Most of this Chapter is taken up with a Parcel of Inchantments, Charms and Spells taken out of Ovid, Virgil, Lucan ; and about two Pages farther a very proper Quorsum hæc ? At last we have an Account (out of Stow*) of five Malefactors put to death at* London for robbing Churches ; but, Sublatâ Causâ tollitur Effectus, Who would venture a Turn at the Gallows for a small Silver Chalice, &c.—— It is supposed Weever died about 1634. had he lived twenty six Years longer, perhaps he would have alter'd or struck out that Paragraph.

Chapter 10. Of the rooting up, taking away, erasing, and defacing of Monuments in the Reigns of King Henry VIII. and Edward VI.——Of Queen Elizabeth's Care for the Preservation of the same, and her Proclamation R^ni. 2^do against defacing of Monuments.

The first part of this Chapter notes the mistaken Zeal of the Commissioners, who being auauthoriſed to pull down and caſt out of all Churches Roods, Graven Images, Shrines, with their Reliques, &c.—brake all the painted Glaſs Windows—violated all the Funeral Monuments—broke Marble Tombs in pieces—Inſcriptions on Braſs, eſpecially if they begun with Orate pro Anima, or concluded with Cujus Animæ propitietur Deus, were for greedineſs of the Braſs, or for that they were thought to be Antichriſtian, pull'd out from the Sepulchres and purloin'd——And here indeed my Author ſpeaks as much to the Purpoſe as if he had been reading Gunton's Hiſtory of Peterborough, as publiſh'd by Dean Patrick. Supplement, p. 333, 340.

Next comes Queen Elizabeth's Proclamation at length, and then an Abbreviation of the Hiſtory of Hacket, Coppinger and Arthington, three notorious Blaſphemers; that whole Story at length is better to be read (in Sir George Paul's Life of Archbiſhop Whitgift 8vo. London 1699.) as it was writ by Dr. Coſin, Dean of the Arches.

The following Chapters are in my Mind altogether foreign to the Purpoſe, till we come to p. 117. and in that and ſome ſubſequent ones, we have Copies of ſeveral Inſcriptions which were uſually under ſeveral Pictures; as of the Trinity, Crucifix, Chriſt, Sepulchre, Holy Lamb, &c. — Copies of Indulgencies and Pardons granted by the Biſhops of Rome—Inſcriptions upon Bells.——Then comes the Copy of the King's (Hen. 8.) Warrant to Commiſſio- ners to take the Surrender of religious Houſes, as alſo a Copy of an Information to Queen Elizabeth, of the Frauds and Corruptions of ſuch ſo employed by her Father.

The remaining Chapters contain chiefly the firſt Inſtitution of the ſeveral Orders of Monks, Votaries, &c. Pariſhes, Biſhopricks; of the Power and Sanctity of Biſhops and Prieſts; Sanctuaries, Eccleſiaſtical State of England and Wales—and ſo concludes this tedious Introduction (conſiſting of no leſs than 196 Pages in Folio) with a brief Declaration of the Number of all Promotions Eccleſiaſtical, of what Name or Title ſoever, at the taxation of the firſt Fruits and Tenths, with the yearly value of each Biſhoprick, Deanry, and Archdeaconry, and the tenth of the Clergy in every Dioceſe.

Where Weever had that Account I know not, I remember to have ſeen an old MS. of the ſame in the Study of Peter Le Neve Eſq; Norroy King of Arms.

Sir Henry Chauncey in his Preface to the Antiquities of Hertfordſhire, ſpeaking of preſerving the Inſcriptions upon Monuments and Graveſtones, ſays—theſe being Memorials of our once flouriſhing Anceſtors, deſigned to perpetuate their Remembrance to future Ages, and of no deſpicable uſe to Heralds in tracing Pedigrees, or Lawyers in making out Titles to Eſtates.

Let ſo much ſuffice in behalf of ſuch a Collection in general, and proceed we to account for our choſen Method Annals.

And

And first I beg leave to intimate, that had the Monumental Inscriptions of Greece and Rome been preserved in a like Chronological Series, the learned World would have reaped an infinite Benefit from it. The Variations in the Language of every Age had been easy to be traced, the use and disuse of Words and Phrases had perfectly instructed the Criticks and Grammarians; and Persons and Actions had been set upon the everlasting Foundations of Truth and Certainty: and perhaps such a Collection had been the best Comment upon Historians, and all Classic Authors.

As to our own Kingdom, I am very sensible that since Weever's Time there have been abundance of Inscriptions printed in the Additions to Stow; as likewise by Dugdale, Thoroton, Burton, Leicester, King, Somner, Gunton, Wright, Wood, Prince, Lloyd, Brown, Battely, Chauncey, Keepe, Gale, Thoresby, Willis, and several others. But whatever Collections of this kind have been made, they either confine themselves and their Readers to one particular Spot, or else (like Weever*) are an indigested Heap, and only amuse or rather confound the Reader, till thus reduc'd into order of time, when the concurrent History makes the noble Chain of Connection and Dependence to illustrate and strengthen one another.*

But here I am sensible of some Objections that are, and will be urged against me; as first that by this Method I propose to reprint all the Inscriptions which have been already printed,

ed, and ſo oblige the Lovers of ſuch Performances to buy the ſame thing twice; for every body that will buy my Book or Books, is ſuppoſed to have all the reſt in his Study already.

In anſwer to which, I would beg thoſe Gentlemen to conſider the Charge of all thoſe Books mention'd on the other ſide, and being very unwilling to grant that all of them are in every Study, I dare venture to affirm, that were I to print ſixteen Volumes of the ſame Bulk and Price as this is, the whole Set would but barely amount to the Price of one of thoſe Books, I mean Dugdale's Warwickſhire, which ſingle Book I cannot believe is in every Study.

I would farther deſire them to conſider, whether ſome Books which have lately appeared of this kind do not want to be reviſed a little? I know Compariſons are odious, therefore I ſhall give but one Inſtance, viz. to deſire them to correct the Inſcription on Sir George Treby, p. 5, 6. by that printed in the View of London. Vol. 2. p. 568.

One View which I framed to my ſelf, by caſting my Collections into this Method, was, that in Proceſs of Time, perhaps, I might be able to ſhew a tolerable Catalogue of the Viri Illuſtres of each Age; which Notion I thought obliged me to interſperſe the Inſcriptions already printed, or elſe to be deficient in juſt ſo many.

No

No—say some very good Friends of mine, that might be easily made up by only mentioning the Names and Dates of the Deaths in the Obituary, and refer for the Inscriptions themselves to the Books in which I find them.

This I take to be partly an Answer to their own Objection, by obliging all that buy my Book to buy all the Books therein quoted.

It has been thought one of the most useful Parts in Law to give a Collection of Forms and Precedents, but shall a new Collector be afraid of giving any which have been before printed, or instead of reciting such approved Forms at large, shall he be referring his Reader to every scattered Volume wherein such a particular Form may be seen and read? This would be not to furnish out a useful Book, but to advise the getting of a great Library.——It would be the same in this Case of Monumental Inscriptions, if while I propose a Collection, and even a Chronological Series of them, I should leave out all those which have been casually inserted in other Volumes, and refer the Reader to look into every Volume; this would even tire them who had all the Books referr'd to, and it would really mock them who wanted those Books.

Be it how it will, it is too late to alter this Volume, and intending only to shew a Specimen of the Method (having made Collections of the same kind, and after the same manner as high as to the Year 1400.) and not having printed ſo many of them as to lie under any great dread of being ruined by the Impreſſion, I ſhall only beg leave to explain ſome things which are neceſſary for the Reader's Information in the Courſe of peruſing the following Sheets, and let them ſhift for themſelves; only aſſuring him for his Comfort, that dividing the MS. Inſcriptions from thoſe already printed, the Majority by near two to one will fall on the MS. ſide.

high

I have endeavoured to keep the Form of each Inſcription as much as poſſibly I could, imagining that might render the Work ſomewhat more beautiful.

At the end of each Inſcription I have acknowledg'd to whom I was indebted for ſuch Communication, which will be fuller explained by the Table ſubjoined.

But here I think my ſelf obliged in a particular manner, to own my Obligations to Mr. Stanton Maſon, near St. Andrew's Church in Holbourn. Were every Perſon of that Profeſſion as careful in preſerving Copies of the Inſcriptions on all the Tombs they ſet up, and as communicative, (which indeed I think they ſhould be for their own Honour) the World might be eaſily obliged once a Year with a Volume of that ſort perfectly new, without ſtigmatizing the Editor with the Name of a Plagiary.

I have likewise been much oblig'd to Mr. Bird the Carver, and to Mr. Hardy and Mr. Palmer Masons; and I wish I could say the same of the whole Fraternity.

As to the Obituary, I am as sensible as any one can be of the Imperfection of it, nor can it ever be supposed to be compleat, except every Registrary in the Kingdom were oblig'd to communicate his Entries yearly: but allowing this to be (what in truth it is) nothing but an indigested Heap of Memoranda, extracted chiefly from publick Papers and such sort of Authorities; yet with all its Faults, I believe I may be so bold as to say Aliquilq; Malo foret Usus in illo.

I could indeed have made it more Historical, as to the Lives and Conversations of several Persons therein mention'd, but suppose there may be obvious Reasons enow against such a Proceeding, to excuse my mentioning any.

I think I shall not be deterr'd from venturing to publish two Volumes more of the same Collections in Michaelmas Term next, or soon after, beginning with the Year 1650. and ending with 1699, and so put twenty five Years in each Volume; especially if the Gentlemen who relish this will please to subscribe for them (on the same Terms, viz. five Shillings the small Paper and Eight Shillings the large, each Volume) either with myself at the Crown and Fan in the Old Bailey, or Mr. Henry Clements, at the Half Moon in St. Paul's Church-yard, London.

One thing I forgot, let not the Reader be very angry, when in ſome Places he ſees at the Front of an Inſcription In————and no more; the Omiſſion is occaſioned by the forgetfulneſs of the Perſons who communicated the ſame, which cannot at preſent be recollected.

In the mean time, I ſhall be much obliged for any Inſcriptions communicated in MS.

Fountayne. Fountayne, late of this Pariſh Eſq; he was ſecond Son to John Fountayne Serjeant at Law, deſcended from the antient Family of Fountaynes, at Saul in Norfolk.

He was educated at Eaton School, and from thence elected to Kings College in Cambridge, where he continued Fellow till he remov'd to Lincolns Inn to ſtudy the Law; upon the Death of his elder Brother without Iſſue Male, he came to a plentiful Eſtate, and married Anne the Eldeſt Daughter of Ed-
Cheſter. ward Cheſter, of Cockenhatch in the Pariſh of Barkway, in the County of Hertford Eſq;. He had by her four Children, John his elder Son and Heir, Thomas a Youth of great hopes, who died before him of the Small Pox in the firſt Year of his Admiſſion, at St. John's College in Cambridge, and lies buried at Barkway in Hertfordſhire: Anne who mar-

Sherlock. Judith who married Thomas Sherlock, Maſter of the Temple, eldeſt Son of William, late Dean of St. Pauls.

He died lamented by all that knew him, for all had a Loſs in him: Here you might ſee the Husband, the Father and the Friend in Perfection, for theſe Characters were ſupported by that of a good Man, and good Chriſtian; his Houſe was exemplary for Order and Government, for daily and regular Devotion, for Plenty without Profuſeneſs, and Hoſpitality without Intemperance; the poor were ſo conſtantly fed from his Table, that they might well look upon his Charity as a kind of Property and ſettled Maintenance.

He was ſo well acquainted with the Pleaſures of Thought and Retirement, that he never wanted

Com-

Company to ſpend his Time, which made it harder to know him, than to know him and not love him; for his Converſation was ſweetned with the Cheerfulneſs of an innocent Mind, and the frankneſs of an honeſt Heart: He lov'd the Company of his Friends, but never more enjoy'd himſelf than in the Society of his Family, knowing how to be eaſy and pleaſant with his Children, without loſing the reſpect that was due to him. He lived with his Wife 29 years, in the moſt entire Love and Affection. In honour to his Memory ſhe hath erected this Monument, which yet cannot expreſs the Image which ſtill lives in her Heart. He died the 5th of Febr. 1709. in the 72d Year of his Age.

Here lieth (in Hopes of a joyful Reſurrection) the Body of Sir John Crewe of Atkinton in the County-Palatine of Cheſter Kn^t, Son of John Crewe Eſq; Grandſon of Sir Randal Crewe Kn^t, Lord Chief Juſtice of the King's-Bench, deſcended from the ancient Family of the Crewe's of Crewe in the ſaid County; and from which (by a younger Son) was deſcended the firſt Lord Crewe, Baron Crewe, of Stene in the County of Northampton. Crewe.

He was a Lover of the Conſtitution both in Church and State, and conſequently an Enemy to Popery and Arbitrary Government; ſtedfaſt to the Eſtabliſh'd Religion, but charitable to ſuch as diſſented from it; who, he thought, were to be won over rather by Mildneſs than Severity, by the Force of Reaſon than Perſecution.

He was exemplary in his Devotions, and careful to have his Family join with him twice a day therein: His Loyalty was unſhaken, and conformable to the Laws of his Country: He ſtrenuouſly maintain'd the Revolution Principles, and rejoyc'd in that happy Proſpect, which was the natural Effect of them, the Eſtabliſhment of the preſent Royal Family, and therein the Preſervation of the Britiſh Liberties, and the Security of the Proteſtant Religion.

He was open, free, and obliging in Converſation: A Lover of Learning and learned Men; delighted in a Country Life, bearing no Office but that of Chief Forreſter of the Forreſt of Delamere, which he held by Inheritance.

He was a dutiful Son, an affectionate Husband, a kind Relation, and a faithful Friend; good to his Servants, generous to his Tenants; (whoſe Poſterity will enjoy the Effects of his Bounty) charitable to the the Poor; universally belov'd and esteem'd while he liv'd, and as generally regretted at his Death.

Wagstaffe. He married first Mary, Daughter of Thomas Wagstaffe, of Tashbrooke in the County of Warwick Esq; a Lady of admirable Endowments for Piety, Charity, and Stedfastness in Friendship.

His second Wife (by whom this Monument is erected in Obedience to his Will) was Mary, Daughter Aston. of Sir Willoughby Aston of Aston in the County of Chester Bar^t.

He died the 19^th Day of May 1711.

Having long acquired an unuſual Command of his Appetites and Paſſions from the natural Force of his Reaſon, Ireton.

Reason, and the Motives of the Christian Religion, he departed this Life the 14th of December 1711. in the 60th Year of his Age, without Reluctance or Grief, but for leaving a most tender and disconsolate Wife, who thus transmits so exemplary a Character to the World. Went- And the Lady Anne Wentworth, worth. Daughter to Thomas Earl of Strafford.
As her Birth, ſo was her Mind, truly noble:
Happily formed to an early Senſe and Love
Of God and all Goodneſs,
By the Religious Care of her excellently wiſe and virtuous Mother:
Whoſe uſeful Inſtructions and holy Pattern
Her whole Life faithfully exemplified
In Sweetneſs of Temper and Behaviour,
In engaging Condeſcenſion, and unaffected Humility,
In generous Friendſhip, and liberal Charity,
And every Chriſtian Grace fit to adorn her Character.
This World (which ſhe had learn'd both to uſe and to deſpiſe)
She, by the Will of God, exchang'd for a better
The third Day of February 1713.

In Gratitude and Honour to the Memory of ſo kind and tender a Friend,
Her ſorrowful and truly affectionate Siſter,
Oxenden. Arabella Lady Oxenden,
Hath cauſed this Monument to be erected.

In this Vault reſt the Remains of Elizabeth the Lady Iſham, Iſham.
only Daughter to Sir Edmond Turnor Turnor. of Stoke Rochford in the County of Lincoln, Married to Sir Juſtinian Iſham the 16. of July 1683.
By whom ſhe had 14 Children, 8 Sons and 6 Daughters,
Ten of which, 6 Sons and 4 Daughters, ſurvived her.
After a long and painful Sickneſs,
In which ſhe ſhew'd a true Chriſtian Courage and Patience,
Moſt piouſly ſubmitting her ſelf to the Will of God,
She reſign'd this mortal, in hope of an immortal Life,
The 22[d] of Aug. 1713. in the 47[th] Year of her Age.

What can be ſaid more, that will not be too little,
of this excellent Woman;
Who much delighting in her Cloſet among her Books,
Learnt early how to live, and how to die,
And left a juſt Pattern for her Sex to imitate.
Let it therefore ſuffice Poſterity,
That, for her tender Care and Love of her Children,
Her charitable Compaſſion for the poor and afflicted,
Her endearing Behaviour to her Relations and Friends,
And for her admirable, ſweet, eaſy Temper, which engaged the Hearts of all that knew her,
(Being adorn'd with the Ornament of a meek and quiet Spirit)
Nobody ever took Leave of this World more lamented.
But her conſtant great Affection for her dear Husband
Appear'd not more in the plain Marks of Love when Living,
Than in the deep Impreſſion a Loſs ſo piercing made Upon a moſt mournful and diſconſolate Widower.

Who was enrich'd with all those Graces and Virtues which adorn a Christian, or accomplish a Lady.
By a quick Apprehension, strong Memory, and sound Judgment
She attained to several Perfections at an Age when others begin to learn.
Her Behaviour was Courteous and Affable, her Temper Calm and Sedate, Devout to her Maker, Dutiful to her Parents, and Obliging to her Friends.
Thus prepar'd to live, she could not be unprepar'd to die.
Afflicted with a lingring Distemper, she so compos'd her Mind
That neither the Temptations of a plentiful Fortune, Nor the Endearments of the best Relations could make her repine at leaving this World, or disturb that Peace she enjoy'd from God,
To whom she chearfully resign'd her Soul
the 6th of July 1713. aged 12 years 6 Months; Her Father-in-Law James Butler Esq; of Wormingburst Park in Sussex, that so early a Piety may be remembred and imitated hath erected this Monument.

who lie buried in the ſame Vault with him,

Tears for his Death
Were not confined to his own Family;
For then,
Great Numbers of the Needy began to think themſelves helpleſs,
Many Widows and Orphans, became a ſecond time deſtitute, Even Foreigners joyned with his Countrymen in Sorrow, and wherever he was known, he was loved, and lamented.
His Converſation was obliging, amidſt all the hurry of Buſineſs, Sweetned with the Chearfulneſs of an innocent Mind, and the Frankneſs of an honeſt Heart.
His Affection to his Wife was Great and Conſtant, his Indulgence to his Children tender but prudent;
his Sincerity and Truth to his Friends, was ever inviolable,
His Integrity and Juſtice throughout all his Dealings the ſame;
Nor was he ſo careful to gather fading Riches on Earth,
as to ſecure laſting Treaſures in Heaven.
Tho' he lived only to his forty ſixth Year, he had time to ſhew himſelf an Example worthy, but hard to be imitated, in his ſeveral Capacities;
and crowded many Virtues in a narrow Compaſs of Life:

to receive the Reward whereof he was summoned hence the 12th of August 1713.
His most afflicted Widow, Caused this Monument to be erected, in honour to his Memory an imperfect Memorial of his Merits, and her Sorrow, Alas! how faint!
When compared with the living Image fixed for ever in her Heart.
